Who Goes There? Wildlife Tracking Workshop with Ed Sharron of the National Park Service
February 3, 2018 | 1PM-4PM
Greenburg Reserve at One World Conservation Center, Bennington, VT

Who's walking in the woods? Join us for this 3-hour workshop on Saturday, February 3rd from 1-4pm led by National Park Service Science Communication Specialist, Ed Sharron. Learn the tracks and signs of many common Vermont mammals that you may find in the Bennington area and at the Greenberg Reserve. We may spot tracks of fisher, red fox, bobcat, and many more!

We will begin the workshop with an indoor discussion, and then head outdoors to put your new skills to the test. All ages are welcome! Please dress appropriately for outdoor activity, and bring a water bottle, snacks, and snowshoes, footwear traction, or trekking poles. If you need snowshoes, let us know.

Since 1999, Ed Sharron has worked as a park ranger in several of our country's beautiful national parks, including Glacier NP, Voyageurs NP, and Marsh-Billings-Rockefeller NHP. Ed has been leading wildlife tracking programs for schools, workshops, and the National Park Service for more than 10 years.

Registration required as space is limited. The workshop is $5.00 payable at the door. Register online at oneworldconservationcenter.org. For more information, call OWCC (802) 447-7419. The One World Conservation Center is located at 413 US Route 7 South, Bennington, Vermont before the Apple Barn if you are coming from Downtown Bennington. The event will only be cancelled in the case of bad weather.

This event is Co-Sponsored by the One World Conservation Center and the Vermont Woodlands Association.
