For Immediate Release

BENNINGTON—

On Thursday, Jan 25th, join us at the One World Conservation Center from, 7pm-8pm, for the Valley We Live in Series: Sustainable Forestry for Wildlife in Vermont with Lisa Sausville, Director, of Vermont Coverts.

Join Lisa as she explains options and strategies for landowners and others to consider as they look to manage woodlands for wildlife. Learn about both public and private organizations that can help with the development of a forest management plan, enrollment in current use, obtain recommendations from a biologist or forester and find financial resources to help with land management. Lisa will also share some options for actions that can have a quick benefit for wildlife species on your property.

Lisa Sausville is the Executive Director of Vermont Coverts: Woodlands for Wildlife, a Vermont non-profit established in 1985. The mission of Vermont Coverts is to enlist Vermont landowners and others in a long term commitment to maintain and enhance diverse wildlife habitat and healthy ecosystems. Coverts flagship 3-day Cooperator Training offers landowners and others an in depth program on forest ecology and management, wildlife stewardship and outreach.

The Valley We Live in Series is hosted by the One World Conservation Center and sponsored by the Vermont Woodlands Association, and the Bank of Bennington. If you have any questions, call OWCC at \(802\) 447-7419. The Valley Series lectures are $5 payable at the door. Pre-register at oneworldconservationcenter.org.
